Everytime I click on my button that links to my homepage, it redirects me to the homepage (the new tab thing). When I click it, it goes directly to the home page. And yes, the button is in the homepage. This has been happening for months and nothing changed in the past. I don't know how I messed it up today but for some reason, it really bothers me. I can't find a single reason as to why I would do something like that. I know it was working fine a couple days ago. A: I think it's possible there was some Javascript that was added to your page that redirects new pages. Could you possibly look for something like: My Page location.replace('mypage.html'); If you are running a content management system, you should look at the file at the root of your site, usually And there should be a page that says something like "js.php". This usually is the page that you upload your own scripts into. Q: How to include custom JS in a module in Angular2 I have a module in Angular2 and I want to add a custom JS like this module.ts import { BrowserModule } from '@angular/platform-browser'; import { NgModule } from '@angular/core'; import { AppComponent } from './app.component'; import { FormsModule } from '@angular/forms'; import { BrowserAnimationsModule } from '@angular/platform-browser/animations'; @N
