Traincontroller 8.0 regkey torrent 25. In the end, it was not enough for the Oakland Raiders to win nine games, but it's always satisfying to hold your rivals to a lower standard. It wasn't enough for the Atlanta Falcons to hold the defending Super Bowl champion New England Patriots to a team-record low 272 yards of total offense. From the very start, the Raiders dominated the game. They jumped out to a 10-0 lead in the first quarter and ended up 17-10 winners. The Falcons put up a valiant fight, rallying from 16 points down in the second half, but they fell short at the end, losing. "We're obviously disappointed, but we held our own pretty good," Falcons linebacker Tedy Bruschi said. "I know our fans enjoyed it, so it doesn't matter how we come out." Well, it does matter how you come out, Falcons fans, because there are serious questions regarding the direction of the franchise. After the postgame show, the head coach, head athletic trainer, defensive coordinator, special teams coordinator, quarterbacks coach, outside linebackers coach and offensive coordinator were on hand. At some point, either a change must be made — or an open phone line needs to be available. Derek Carr led the way at quarterback, completing 28 of 44 passes for 291 yards and three TDs. Rookie Latavius Murray ran the ball 14 times for 157 yards and two TDs, but the biggest play came early in the first half when he stretched left, was able to tip the ball back and then cut it right back to the house, as Falcons linebacker Prince Shembo dove and didn't get his hand on the football. He scored from the 3-yard line to go up 10-0, but Marshawn Lynch would come along and immediately answer with a 7-yard TD run. "I mean, it's nothing that we can't recover from," Lynch said. "It's fun to bounce back
